Processing plant planned on parcel

By Ceilidh McClurg

Calcium bicarbonate may not be a word residents are familiar with now, but it is one that could become very familiar if a proposed land deal goes through.

Canadian Minerals Inc. (CMI) is preparing to pack their bags and expand their operations into Didsbury before the year 2001.

Town Mayor, Ray Lea, says the deal has been in the works for a number of months, and after spending a great deal of time examining the impact of such an industry on Didsbury he is confident it will be a wise economic development step.

CMI had been scoping Didsbury when deciding that they wished to expand their production. The calcium bicarbonate is ground out of marble taken from rock quarries in British Columbia.

CMI plans to send the six inch crushed rock to Didsbury via the rail system to process it to be put into many products including things such as drywall mud, stucco, agricultural lime, and even antacid tablets like Tums.

"It's an edible product," says Lea who says he was careful to assess the impact of a processing plant within the town.

When he was confident that such a plant would be a positive addition to the town, he met with adjacent landowners to explain that what little byproduct there might be, is not harmful.

Still no answer from Minister on hospital review

By Ceilidh McClurg

Town officials report that there is still no word from the Minister of Health regarding their request for a corporate review of the local health authority.

It was more than a month ago that municipal leaders from the communities of Didsbury, Carstairs and Mountain View County met with the Minister to air concerns regarding the local hospital.

They presented Halvar Jonson with a formal letter requesting a corporate review of Regional Health Authority Five stating that they felt the region was doing nothing to save the facility, nor did they feel their concerns were being heard by the chief executive officer of the authority.

When word came out late last year that a program review would be conducted at the local hospital, which could result in the loss of some acute care beds moving into long-term care, the issue became a forefront concern for all the municipalities who use the facility.

The municipalities told the minister that they felt they were representing the concerns of their constituents, and to back that up, they handed over a handful of individual letters from area residents.

Jonson did not give any immediate impressions to the delegates, they said upon their return. However, they did expect to hear from the Minister's office about the direction the Minister plans to take.

There have been no calls.

Evan Parliament, Didsbury's CAO says he is not surprised that no concrete answer has come from Edmonton. In fact, he says, he doubts there will be any word for some time. It is speculated that a Cabinet shuffle is pending in the provincial government, which means Jonson may not be the Minister of Health.

Parliament says he believes there will be no response from the Minister of Health's office until that shake-up is complete.

Mayor Ray Lea says he understands that the changes may be what is delaying the decision, but he is anxious to know how the concerns of this community will be dealt with by the province.

"We want to expedite this. We want it to be done," said Lea last week.

In the meantime, the town has sent correspondence to the Minister proposing a solution to another problem looming at Alberta Health offices. It is expected that this year sometimes there will be some closures of operating theatres in Calgary.

A phone call and a letter was put into the Minister's office notifying and reminding them that there is an operating theatre only 45 minutes away from Calgary, here in Didsbury, that would be available for use.

"They could use this hospital instead of having a shortfall in Calgary," says Lea.

Coun. Gord Quantz says that his hope is that once surgeons realize the availability of the local operating theatre and acute care beds, they will come back even after more theatres open in Calgary. He says this would increase the utilization of the Didsbury and District Hospital, thereby decreasing the chance of bed closures.

Developer disagrees ...and other town council notes

Developer disagreement

David Stanley, the developer of the land in Westpoint came to council during their last meeting. Stanley presented some concerns about the way he feels his development was unfairly dealt with and asked that council rectify. He said that he believed he was being treated unfairly by the town development officer and the CAO.

The town's lawyer had spoken privately with council before Stanley appeared before them. Neither the council, nor the CAO responded to any of the complaints brought to them by Stanley.

Stanley is presently involved in a lawsuit against a number of local area businesses in regards to his development.

Leading leaders

It was an appropriate place for Roy Brassard to present an update on the Mayor's Prayer Breakfast at town council. Brassard explained on June 5 the second annual event will take place. He said that the committee has changed it to a weekend event because it was felt too many people were unable to attend last year because of work commitments. He told council that Stockwell Day, provincial treasurer has been booked as the guest speaker.

"This is a prayer breakfast for all of our leaders... certainly it is the councillors we look to for leadership in our community," said Brassard. "It is really a great way to start out your day."

Statements satisfying

The town officially wrapped up financial business dealings with their last fiscal year. Council was presented with the audited financial statements for 1998 which showed "a very positive year-end position for the Town of Didsbury." There was an increase in the operating fund balance of $30,183. The package was brought forward by town financial officer and assistant CAO, Sandra King. She stated, "Our reserve position has improved somewhat, with a year-end balance of $414,243 which represents an increase in the reserve fund balance of $60,522. The statements also showed that the town is at 68.8% of its total debt limit, and 53.84% of its total service on debt limit.

Acceptance of the audited financial statements were unanimously carried.

Skateboarders supported

There has been a $2085 infusion of cash to the proposed skateboard park project that has been undertaken by a number of town youth involved in skateboarding. Coun. Gary Dolha who sits as a town representative on that committee, saw an opportunity at last month's meeting to attain those funds to be put into reserve for the purpose of such a park. He requested that the proceeds of the sale of a parcel of closed roadway to the Ag Society be put towards the project. It was officially passed in the form of a council motion last meeting.

Dolha said, "I would like to thank council for that."

Rutted roads

Rutted roads are really a problem in some areas of town. Wes Yeoman, town director of engineering and operational services is attempting to find a solution for some of those problems. He has put forward an application to the province under the Resource Road Program to have them fund a portion of the potholes along 23 St. Yeoman explained that it may fall under the program because it is often used as a truck route, however he added that he did not believe the project would be approved because the town recently pulled money from the resource Road Program for reconstruction of 15 Ave. Yeoman said he thought it would at least be worth a try to lessen the burden on the road reconstruction budget.

Pothole patches

Money was put into the pot for potholes. The town was able to draw funds from the Street Improvement Program with the province. It is a cost shared program whereby the province picked up $58,140 of the total costs of all road repairs for this year. The agreement was officially signed at the last council meeting.

Remote readers

As part of the town's application to the Municipal 2000 Sponsorship Program, which has been applied to for the costs of a bylaw officer, the town also submitted an application for a project that will make meter reading easier. They are asking for $35,040 to remove old inside water meters and replace them with new electronic remote read-out meters.

Fee instituted

Because of an increase in the amount of encroachment agreements coming into the town office, the Municipal Planning Commission has asked council to approve a new fee of $250 for each waiver requested and $100 be charged for the processing of encroachment agreements. Robert Wigg, town development officer said that this was comparable with fees charged by surrounding municipalities. Councillors questioned the cost, but were assured the cost merely covered the amount of staff time and paperwork that goes into creating these agreements. Mayor Ray Lea called the new fee, "a user fee." However, the fee is flexible depending on the situation and if the Commission feels the fee should be lowered because of a special case, they have been given the authority to do so. The motion was carried.

Project opposition

Four letters from residents regarding their objection to a proposed elevator project that would remove the existing gazebo and replace it with a park centred around a replica of an old time grain elevator. All of the letters indicated that the authors were concerned that there would be a loss of parking space in the downtown core.

Dollars for scholars

A $1000 donation was made to the Olds Koinonia Christian School scholarship fund.

Clothing mystery still unsolved, says county patrol

By Ceilidh McClurg

The county patrol officer says he has come to a dead end in the investigation into huge amounts of clothing being dumped around the county.

Alex McKee, patrol officer for Mountain View County says, "We followed up all the leads, and we've spent quite a bit of time on it already. We've come to an almost dead end unless we get some more leads."

But, it is not that they haven't come close.

The fourth incident occurred east of Didsbury near Mountain View Hall, where tons of bundles of good clothes were dropped in the middle of a field. A witnesses spotted the culprits in the act and immediately notified authorities.

However, reports McKee, he arrived just minutes after the load was dumped and the culprit had escaped the scene. The witness was unable to attain the licence plate number, and the trail ran cold.

In total now, there have been five locations where authorities have found huge amounts of clothing just left by the side of the road. It started with the first incident in March on a road allowance west of Olds, and finishing with the latest dump a few weeks ago on an abandoned farm site off Highway 2 between Didsbury and Carstairs.

McKee says he has been unable thus far to figure out who might be senselessly throwing away clothes that could be used for better purposes.

He does suspect, however, that it is all coming from the same people, as each time the bundles of clothes are wrapped in large white sheets.

One thing is for sure, there are a lot of clothes littering the sides of roads in the county. The first dump required a full load of a two ton truck to clear away.

It is because the quantity is so large that McKee does not believe the items are coming from any local group.

"No organization around the County of Mountain View has that much clothing," he says.

McKee does however believe that some organization in Calgary has hired some company or individual to dispose of the clothing, and to cut corners of the cost of dumping the material legitimately, is using the rural areas as a virtual dump for their garbage.

"We didn't want it, but we got it," he says.

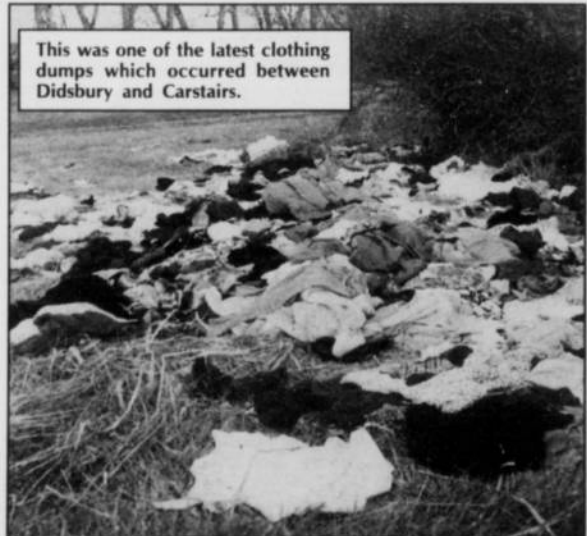

The worst part, according to McKee is that the clothing, much of which is virtually new, could be used for charity.

So, if the culprits won't do something with it, local people will. A resident near Olds, Judy Nelson, has come out to most of the sites and picked up the clothing. She then sends it through a charity organization who delivers the clothes to those around the world who are suffering.

One pile remains untidy between Didsbury and Carstairs. McKee says because of the rain of the past weeks, the clothing is in poor shape and the county is sending someone to clean it up and throw it away.

In any case, McKee says he wishes the dumping would stop and if they ever catch the people responsible he assures, they will be charged under the Environmental Protection Act and for Dumping Waste on Road Allowance, which is illegal.

Mountain View County isn't the only area dealing with these hassles. McKee reports there has also been two drops of large amounts of clothing in and around Bowden, in the County of Red Deer.

This was one of the latest clothing dumps which occurred between Didsbury and Carstairs.

New industry to bring new jobs

Lea and Evan Parliament, town CAO say they can be sure of this because they were invited to take an all expenses paid trip to CMI's plant in Woodlands, Washington. They toured the plant and met with the Mayor and CAO of Woodlands, which is almost exactly the same size as Didsbury, for many hours to discuss how the processing plant impacted their community.

Lea says one of the ways the plant will impact this community, if the deal goes through, will be to provide jobs to local residents. The company plans to bring their plant manager and a couple of other senior staff with them. But there are another 10 to 20 jobs in the plant that will be available.

"They want to use the local labor pool," says Parliament.

CMI was also looking at Olds, Ponoka and Airdrie, but they settled on Didsbury because there was a piece of land close to the tracks, and they felt comfortable with the development opportunity in Didsbury.

Parliament says that he believes that once other companies can see what CMI saw, it may spur more growth for the town.

"This is economic development at its best," he says.

But, it is not a done deal yet, say both men.

Although all of this looks positive, both men agree that the expansion into Didsbury is still tentative. Development agreements and permits need to be approved by both the town and the company.

Lea also points out that it is during the period of agreements being drafted that local residents will have the chance for input through public hearings, which are required as part of any development agreement or permit.

However, both Lea and Parliament say they are hopeful.

"I feel it is going to be a very good thing for Didsbury. I realize it has to go through the development process, but it looks very good."

The 43 acres of land, which is already zoned for industrial purposes, is located on the north side of the bypass road and east of 23 St.

False rumours cause headache

By Ceilidh McClurg

These games are no joke, nor is it funny at all, say RCMP and the high school principal.

Didsbury RCMP say they are frustrated with the rumour mill that has caused extreme panic among students and parents at Didsbury High School.

RCMP report that calls started coming into their office that there had been some sort of a threat of a shooting at DHS early this month.

It was investigated at the time and found to have no foundation.

However, this time, says Sgt. Ron Platz, he feels that once again certain students have started a malicious and false rumour that threats to students were found on the internet. He says their office is taking the reports seriously, however what they are taking even more seriously is the people spreading the rumours.

"If someone starts rumours that they are going to do this, they are going to be treated very seriously," says Platz. He says it is causing problems within the school, and the station because people are perpetuating stories that are not true or are blown completely out of proportion.

That is what he believes happened last week when students began to report to teachers, the principal and the RCMP that there was a threat of a shooting on Thursday.

He says the police investigated, and tried to track down who may have said they were going to come into the school with the intent to cause harm to other students.

Platz says he found that all information was unfounded and based on rumours that had grown bigger as they passed each person's ears.

"Although we found this to have absolutely no foundation, we did take it very seriously," says Platz.

Platz says that the seriousness of the matter was not that something might actually occur, but rather that someone seemed to be enjoying causing a stir by starting threatening rumours.

"There is no one, we feel, in our town or in our schools who are capable of such a threat," says Platz.

DHS school principal, Mark Leggette agrees. He says that he had been taking calls throughout the past couple of weeks from parents who stated they would not allow their children to come to the school on Thursday because of the threat.

Rumours also circulated that the school would be closed down on Thursday all day. This is untrue say the RCMP and Leggette.

He said he was confident that nothing would happen and school would continue as usual, including holding a dance on Thursday night.

Leggette too says he is angry and frustrated that someone would purposely try to cause a stir in the school by spreading inaccurate and unfounded rumours. However, after speaking with students during the morning announcements and stating the seriousness of spreading false stories, he felt that it was understood that there was no substantial threat and that those involved in creating the rumour were doing serious harm.

Although he felt there was no real threat, he did say that the high school picture planned for Thursday afternoon, which includes all graduates would not be taking place. He said that he and the staff felt that someone with a laser pointer would be enough to cause hysteria among the students, and he wanted to protect them from that type of emotional strain.

Classes carried on through Thursday, and no such threat came to fruition, just as the RCMP thought.

However, the RCMP indicate that in the future, any persons spreading rumors will be sure to discover that their malicious intent is a very serious offence.

All was well at the school on Thursday.

OPINIONS EDITORIAL

Driving me insane

Nicole
SMITH

Up until a week or so ago I loved living in Alberta.

There's no provincial sales tax here, the cost of living is a lot cheaper and there's some really beautiful country out here.

Coming from British Columbia, I was saving a lot of money by living in Alberta. I didn't pay as much in rent, for groceries and other such amenities.

It was a great deal. I could make money working, pay all my expenses, and still have some cash leftover for myself.

Like I said, Alberta was a great place to live. Was, that is, until I had to change my car insurance over from BC to Alberta.

In BC, it's really simple to insure your vehicle. ICBC is government owned and operated and all insurance companies work under the same ICBC heading. You go to one place, pay one price and your car is insured and registered. Actually, insurance and registration aren't even two separate entities in BC.

Man, I didn't appreciate the simplicity of vehicular insurance until I tried to do the same thing out here.

My first complaint of the whole experience would be the price that I was quoted for my car insurance.

I drive a 1988 Ford Tempo, but from the prices I was given from a few different companies, you'd think I drove a Mercedes. To insure my car for one month, I would have had to pay almost a $400 down payment, before they would even put insurance on my car. After that, it would cost me about $130 a month, and that's just for basic insurance without collision. Some of the other companies quoted me even higher prices.

Their reasoning for these ridiculous prices was that I didn't have enough driving experience. I'm 21 now, but when I turned 16 I didn't feel that I was ready to drive, so I waited until I was almost 18 to get my driver's license. They are holding the fact that I was responsible about getting my license, and not just rushing out and getting it when I was of the legal age, against me. I never thought that being smart about driving would be detrimental to my bank account.

The agents said that I had to go through a special insurance company because the regular companies wouldn't pick me up because I didn't have five years driving experience.

You know how hard it is to find a 21-year-old driver, with absolutely no tickets or accidents on her record, and insure her. Yeah, I guess it's easy to see why those other companies wouldn't want to insure me. I'm a real road hazard.

My next complaint would have to be the hassle it is to actually get plates on my car.

First I had to have an out-of-province inspection on my car. That's fine, I knew this was something I had to do. The thing I didn't realize was that there's a two-week time period on this inspection before it expires. I figured I was taking the bull by the horns and having the inspection done early. Little did I know that I almost cost myself the $60 inspection fee twice.

So, okay, the inspection's done. Now, I would think, the next step would be to get an Alberta driver's license. The thing is that the computer system that connects Alberta to ICBC is a little shaky. It only connects when it feels like it. Now I have a driver's license, and I must say that my picture on it is one of the best I've ever seen done.

I thought that next in line would have been to register the car, but again, I was wrong. I needed insurance first. So I had to take care of that before I could register my car.

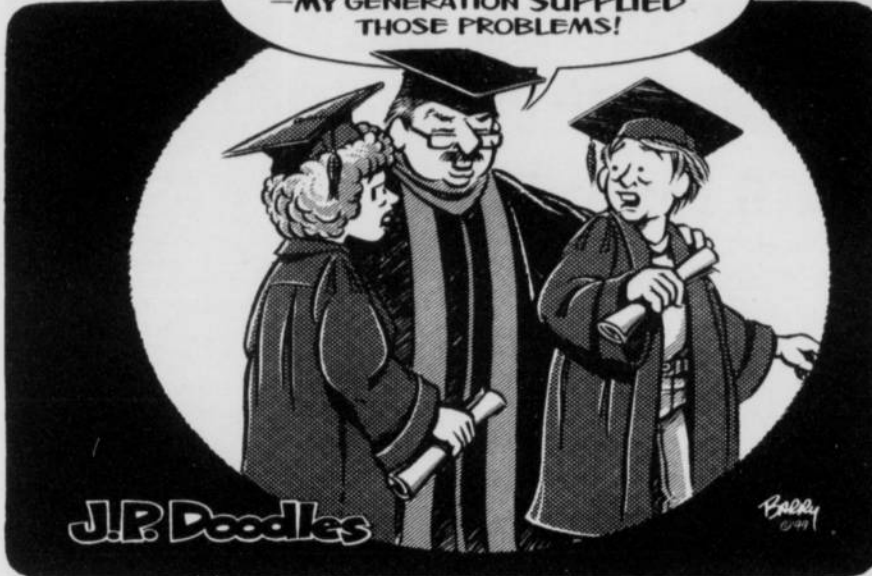

This entire experience kept me quite busy for an afternoon.

So, I got the insurance, got the plates, and finally got my car back on the road. You don't even know what a relief that was.

I'm really appreciating driving my car these days. After all the work and money to get it insured, I sometimes feel like I'm driving a Mercedes.

I've made myself one promise after all this hassle though. I'm never moving to another province again.

Suggestions for Cipperly's Pond

Dear Editor,

In response to a letter a couple of weeks ago regarding Cipperly's Pond.

I am another avid camper who enjoys nothing more than packing up and "getting away from it all." Although I prefer to head west to more isolated areas, many weekends last year were spent at Cipperly's just resting and enjoying the atmosphere it provided.

Party-goers, vandalism and theft are not unique to Cipperly's. Most campgrounds I've stayed at have also dealt with the same. The differences found are in how each site is managed and what is in place to prevent undesirable and/or criminal acts.

I appreciate the effort and work the Elks have invested into Cipperly's. I also appreciate the individual members and community volunteers who have stayed at Cipperly's and done their best to manage the campground during the summer season. It would be a shame to see everyone's efforts lost and Cipperly's closed. I believe that this is not necessary and would like to offer the following suggestions:

- talk to other campgrounds regarding management and security measures;
- charge a fee, this in itself would solve many immediate problems and would provide the Elks with the necessary dollars to properly maintain the grounds and perhaps allow some form of payment for those who stay on site and manage the campground;

- finally, post eviction and conviction notices. Support the site manager in following through on security.

Given the above, it won't take long for people to realize that this is a safe, secure and enjoyable campground to visit. Inappropriate behaviour will not be tolerated and the majority of those who participate will soon move on.

Sincerely,
W. Clarke,
Didsbury, AB

Wonderings of the heart

By Margaret Fradley

High school graduation is just around the corner. I heard one graduand say, "Boy, am I glad I'm finished." No, my friend, you have just begun.

You have invested 12 years towards your goal. Your education has been a good foundation for building towards that goal, and now there is opening up before you a new open door, fresh experiences. Following graduation you will each go your separate ways, pursuing your individual dreams and visions.

Years ago, when our daughter was in Grade 8, she was told by a teacher she was not "graduating material." This spurred her on, and following graduation she took her training in social work, later transferring to education. She received her degree in Special Education and became a very good teacher.

There will be many opportunities opening up for you: take hold of them. Nothing you learn will ever go amiss. Somewhere down the line you will make use of that particular opportunity. Even some seemingly insignificant job you may take on, even temporarily, give it all you've got. It will prove valuable and useful in the future.

Go out with enthusiasm, trust and expectancy. Go for your goal. Don't let anyone deter you or dissuade you. You can do it.

Many of us older folks have fond memories of our own graduation, or that of our children or grandchildren and we take pleasure in congratulating the Class of 1999 of Didsbury High School.

Good luck and God bless you.

Home care or no care for elders?

Dear Editor,

So, the Alberta Government wants the elderly and infirm to stay in their own homes. Funding is made available to Home Care to support them.

Not so you would notice in the case of my elderly infirm mother. She has been on oxygen since Christmas and then she fell last week and broke her upper arm. She can't feed her cat, pour milk on her cereal, take the stick out of her patio door, put it back at night, remove frozen meal from freezer or carry a hot meal to the table.

But, the mandate of the Ministry of Health does not allow the Home Care home support worker to do any of that.

What did Mom and the rest of us pay high taxes and high health care premiums for all these years?

It sure seems like mental health and peace of mind don't seem to be taken into account.

It sure seems like more money comes out of our pockets and you get less service.

User pay for luxuries? Sure. But, user pay for necessities is nuts.

Sincerely,
T.J. O'Brien

Let's create our own country

Dear Editor,

To me it seems utterly stupid to send Canadian airplanes to Europe. We are told what is happening by Mr. Cretien and Mr. Clinton. Now I really don't think anyone except the editor of an Eastern Canada based newspaper would believe anything the Liberal Government said. Anything! You know the guys that were going to halt free trade and get rid of the G.S.T. And then there is Mr. Clinton whom most decent people gag when they see preforming as American head of state.

Do you remember in 1991 when our airplanes were used to bomb the people of Iraq? Do you recall the American president comparing Saddam Hussein to Hitler? Do you remember Niera the nurse from Kuwait who had been crying on television as she described how the Iraq troops threw the babies out of the incubators to the floor to die and then took the incubators back to Iraq. The poor girl had all of North America in tears but then it was revealed by some kill joy that Niera was the daughter of the Kuwait ambassador to the United States and she was attending University in Washington and has not even been near Kuwait during the invasion. It was passed in congress to attack Iraq and several congressmen mentioned the babies and the incubators. Of course we know now the real reason for the war was the oil companies didn't want oil from Iraq and Iran on stream at the same time. Saddam's germ warfare bombs had been purchased from the good old U.S.A. whose soldiers are now suffering the effects of U.S. stupidity.

The United States of America is like the bad boy of the neighbourhood. You don't want your son associating with him. We were told in school that the U.S.A. would defend Canada in a war with Russia and we didn't really need arms. Well, now we in Canada are defenceless and the U.S.A. owns us. It's time for a change. Get out of the United Nations which is just communism of world capitalism and get out of N.A.T.O., stop snivelling and develop our own country and our own army independent from the international criminals we are hooked up with now.

Sincerely,
Dennis Combs

Pond is community treasure

Dear Editor,

I was quite disappointed to hear of the possibility that Cipperly's Pond would be closed.

It wasn't all that long ago I myself was in high school and joined many parties gathered at Cipperly's Pond, and I understand the concern of vandalism and theft first hand.

Now, having appreciated the park with my family and friends I too would like to see a stop to those who don't appreciate the serenity of the park.

I would hope another solution could be found to weed out the possibility of trouble, like a park gate and admission fee payable to the Elks.

I look forward to using the park this summer and would be pleased to know an admission fee would be used to maintain the park, and just as pleased to pay my share.

Sincerely,
A. Fowler,

PROCLAMATION

Whereas, the Canadian Red Cross is committed to ensuring the safety of all Canadians in, on and around the water.

Whereas, the Canadian Red Cross has been helping Canadians enjoy the water related activities for more than 50 years and trains over 1.4 million swimmers and swimming instructors each year.

Therefore, I, Raymond Lea, Mayor of the Town of Didsbury, hereby proclaim May 30 to June 6, 1999 as Water Safety Week. I also urge all residents of Didsbury to become involved in water safety programs during Water Safety Week and throughout the year.

Carstairs and Cremona to share bylaw officer

By Ceilidh McClurg

Carstairs and Cremona could soon be getting the services of a bylaw officer along with the Town of Didsbury.

The three towns have jointly applied for a government grant that would pay for the first year of services for a bylaw officer that would patrol all three towns for bylaw infractions.

The Municipal 2000 Sponsorship program initiated by the provincial government allows municipalities to apply for funding for projects that encourage inter-municipal cooperation.

The Town of Didsbury council, in addition to the councils of each of the other two towns have sent their application for the $60,000 grant to the province and are awaiting to hear the response.

Penny Fox, CAO for the Village of Cremona said in a letter that she believes having a bylaw officer in town part-time would be a benefit to her community.

"The need for a bylaw enforcement service is something that our community has discussed over the past two years and the chance to share in this type of project is an ideal opportunity for us," says Fox.

The Town of Carstairs passed a motion at their April 6 meeting allowing the project to be approved.

However, the Town of Didsbury has already hired a bylaw enforcement officer, Greg Hnatiuk, on a part-time basis which had been budgeted for in the operational budget for 1999. Town development officer, who was in charge of the application says that getting the sponsorship grant will offset the cost of that position to the taxpayers.

According to the grant application form filled out by the town, "Stakeholders will enjoy the benefits of cleaner, safer, and more viable communities. They will have access to more effective bylaw enforcement services, at a significantly reduced cost to the taxpayers of all three communities."

Wigg explains that if the application is approved, Hnatiuk would divide his full-time status between the three areas based on need and population.

In Didsbury, Hnatiuk's main focus will be bylaw infractions focusing around the issues of parking, noise, weeds, business bylaws, and most of all educating the public regarding bylaws.

It is expected that Hnatiuk will also be obtaining special constable status which would allow him to patrol for all high-way law infractions including concerns such as speed. Wigg says he believes that this would not only help to keep all three communities safer, but would allow the RCMP to focus on the more important issues facing them.

Hnatiuk says he is hopeful that the application is approved by the province because he looks forward to being able to serve all three towns.

Practical arts need to be protected

By Ceilidh McClurg

Some may fear that programs such as industrial arts, band and other practical arts are fading fast in the face of funding formulas.

Chinook's Edge School Division says they too are concerned that the funding for such programs is getting tighter all the time.

Trustee Ian Taylor spoke to his fellow board members during their last meeting.

"Some of us feel apprehensive they (practical arts programs) aren't given the attention and support they used to be and that they may be disappearing," he said.

Taylor says the problem with the programs is that they are often costly and when not enough funding comes from government, not enough can be passed onto the schools. And, in site based management when the school administrators are setting their budget with their allotted dollars, Taylor says it is often a case of "one lonely shop teacher fighting for a share of the budget."

Other trustees spoke about the practical arts and how these programs are part of a wholistic approach to educating a child.

A motion was put before the board that stated, "Chinook's Edge School Division #73 Board of Education wish to support and continue to support the practical arts within the division."

Trustee Doug Campbell said that he too had concerns about the viability of such programs, but felt that the motion presented was too vague. Instead, he moved that the board direct the superintendent to come back to the board with "concrete ideas to ensure the safety of those programs."

Car seat round-up for Didsbury

From Didsbury Public Health Nursing

Garage sale shopping? When considering purchasing a carseat, crib or walker from the local garage sale - think safety first. Most of the car seats that end up in garage sales are no longer safe. Some of the reasons include: the seat is over 10 years old, the car seat is missing original parts, the seat was recalled by the manufacturer, or the seat has been damaged in some way.

Although baby walkers are used with good intentions, the largest number of head injuries in children come from falls down stairways in infant walkers. Walkers allow children to access things that they may not be ready for, such as stairs or reaching up to dangerous dangling cords. Baby walkers are no longer for sale.

Cribs that were made prior to 1986 are dangerous. They do not meet current government standards, and it is illegal to sell these cribs. All cribs made in Canada must have a label stating when they were made.

Public Health Nursing is hosting a round-up to collect and destroy unsafe carseats, baby walkers and cribs. This is the first round-up of this type in this area and the public is urged to collect and drop off these items at the Health Unit (at the hospital) during the month of June. Other events happening at the health unit during the month of June include: Think, Think Again carseat safety education evening, Grade One/ preschool immunizations.

Please call 335-7292 for further information on the above.

DHS #1 in the county for track and field

News from the Dragon's Den

Greeting and welcome to this week's edition of the Dragon's den.

With the upcoming arrival of Grade 9 Achievement Tests, beginning the morning of May 26, and also the Diploma Exams, beginning the morning of June 18, the level of studying seems to be increasing. What is important to also note is the report from Statistics Canada's Educational Quarterly Review that states that Alberta has the largest percentage of individuals with post secondary degrees, diplomas or certificates in all the provinces. Good luck to all students who are writing Government exams this spring. We know you will do well.

From last week's news, we would like to congratulate the Grade 11 class for their excellent contribution and ultimate winning of the traditional May Monarch Week event. We would again like to express our gratitude to all those individuals and organizations who helped make this event a success. We are fortunate to have such a generous and supportive community.

This past May 18, there were about 60 high school (Grade 10-12) students who participated in the County Track and Field Meet held in Carstairs. It was a very cold day for participation in such a physically demanding challenge. Fortunately, there were not serious injuries due to the temperature. Didsbury High School placed first overall with 479 points versus the second place team from Sundre who earned 278 points. Individual Aggregate Awards consisted of a number of DHS athletes. Amanda Schneider won the Junior Girls title with 21 points, Melissa Feenstra won the Intermediate Girls with 25 points, Tyson Youngs received the title for Intermediate Boys with a total of 22 points, and Courtney Murphy won the Senior Girls with 19 points. A special mention goes to Ryan Dalziel, who reached a new record in the Intermediate Long Jump. Congratulations to all those students who participated and definitely excelled at this meet. We are very proud of your efforts.

The Junior High Track Meet is on May 25 and we wish our competitors the best of luck.

Didsbury's Golf Team is already competing against teams from Carstairs, Olds and Sundre. So far, Didsbury has prevailed beating Carstairs 4 matches to 1. Well done.

The end of the year band concert is almost here. The final concert will be held on June 1 at 6:30 p.m. behind the Museum. We will start off with a barbecue at 5:30 p.m. and the bands will begin playing around 6:30 p.m. Since this is an outdoor concert, please bring lawn chairs or blankets to sit on. Bring the whole family for this relaxing evening of fun, food and music. If the weather is too wet or too cold, the concert will be moved inside to the DHS gym, but the food will still be available. Please, make sure to stop in at the Museum, to check out some of their displays, as they will be open that evening. If any parents would like to volunteer to help out at the barbecue, your help would be greatly appreciated, just contact Mr. Wegner at the school. We will also be needing a couple of barbecues so if you can bring one earlier in the evening, please let Mr. Wegner know. We appreciate all your support of this fun wind-up to a great year. Hope to see you there.

Grad news is sparse, but very good. The students are successfully preparing for their Grand March and have another practice on May 26 after the practice of the Parent's March, which begins at 7 p.m. Most everything else is ready for the big event and we look forward to seeing all of Didsbury at the arena at 8 p.m. for the ceremonies. Grads 99: Last of its Kind seems to be shaping up very nicely. Please join us.

Scholarships are a very important part of the last few months of school and this year is no different. Mr. Neuberger is receiving information on numerous scholarships each week and below are the latest:

To celebrate its 50th anniversary, Alberta Blue Cross has announced the formation of 58 new scholarships. The Foundation will provide $50,000 annually to scholarships ranging from $375 to $1250 for attendance at several accredited institutions across the province. Students interested in applying for these scholarships may contact the Blue Cross website at www.ab.bluecross.ca or www.studentawards.com also for more information, please contact Linda Turner, Scholarship Liaison Officer at (780) 498-8229 or e-mail at lturner@ab.bluecross.ca.

The 1999 Agri-Business Scholarship is also available as of now. Ten scholarships of $1000 each will be awarded to farm students entering their first year of post-secondary education in the field of agriculture, business or biotechnology here in Canada. Interested applicants must demonstrate academic excellence, leadership capabilities, and a keen interest in their local communities. Applications must be post-marked by Aug. 16, 1999. For more information on this opportunity, contact the office at Monsanto Canada Inc. at (905) 814-2499.

The Royal Purple Association is also offering a scholarship. Please contact Shirley Thompson for further information at 335-3787.

The Crossroads Gas Co-op Ltd. in Innisfail is also offering an AON Consulting Achievement Award for children of members of gas co-ops and Indian bands or of ratepayers in towns, villages, or counties that are members of the Federation of Alberta Gas Co-ops Ltd. Contact Debbie Allan at 227-4861 if you have further questions.

We hope everyone in the community had a safe and relaxing Victoria Long Weekend. It's now countdown to Grade 9 Camp.

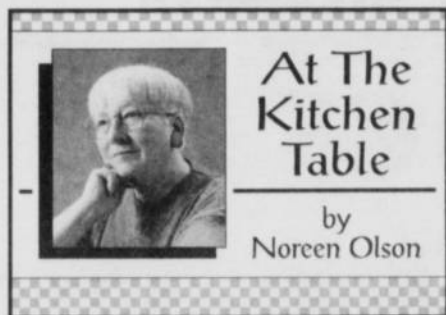

Power of praise in playing

Olds Koinonia students, and their Worship Band entertained a room full of entranced audience members Wednesday night at Zion Evangelical Missionary Church. The evening was the culmination of the growth of the students, both spiritually and musically over the past year.

The students sang, played instruments in the band, and lead the audience in a time of worship and entertainment.

At The Kitchen Table

Noreen Olson

I think Mom was 90 when she fell in the bathroom and broke her hip. The bathroom door opened inward and she had fallen against it, so they had a terrible time getting her out of there. My sister Marj, who lived with and cared for Mom, was totally distraught and when the door had been removed and Mom was finally extricated, Marj grabbed a jacket to accompany Mom to the hospital. As the ambulance attendants carried the stretcher through the front hall one of them looked up and said, "my this is a nice old house." "It was built in 1917," said a calm little voice from the stretcher, "and Marjie don't wear that coat."

Mom has been gone for almost four years but her influence will be with us forever. Last week Marj, who has been retired for at least 15 years, dreamed that she was very late for work and was standing in front of her closet trying to find something to wear. Nothing was the least bit suitable, fortrel pant suits, long sleeved filmy prints, short tight skirts and blouses in neon colours. She was sick with worry and kept desperately sorting through these weird outfits. Mom just stood behind her saying, "you knew you had to go to work today dear. Why didn't you make more of an effort to have some decent clothes ready."

Mom had class and style and she loved clothes. She was tall and slim with good posture and she walked gracefully. She and I had many a dreadful hour over the way I walked. "Like some kind of awkward cowboy," she would tell me, and since I had no idea what she wanted from me, or how to walk any other way than what I was doing, all that was accomplished was that I became more self conscious and more awkward. I remember catching a glimpse of myself in a store window and realizing that in my effort to maintain good posture I was actually leaning backwards. Small wonder I kept tripping over things.

When the folks moved to Ponoka, Mom got a job at The Dress Rite Ladies Wear. The Dress Rite carried only top brands and leading labels. They had lovely clothes and it wasn't long before Mom had her own clientele who depended on her to pick the styles and colours that would be most flattering. She sometimes went with the owner on buying trips, she modelled in their annual fashion show, and she was an alteration wizard who routinely changed a size 12 to an 8, 10 or 14. For we three daughters, our shopping days were over.

"A new Jantzen order came in this week," she would say, "and there is a grey tweed skirt that would be perfect with your blue blouse." Or, "we are having a sale starting Monday, do you want to come down Sunday night and look at a few things I put aside?" We were so totally spoiled that when Mom finally retired we had no idea how to shop for ourselves. I didn't buy a new coat for years because it seemed like such a hassle to actually have to take the time to look for and try on things that had not been pre-selected for my taste and color preferences.

Mom did not retire from fashion when she left the store. She had strong opinions and did not hesitate to share them. "Isn't that a kind of an, at home, dress dear." "Surely you weren't planning to wear those shoes." "Are you wearing a good bra?" "Why do you insist on wearing that neckline?" "You should wear a vee neck." I think she was about 92, recovered from her broken hip and using a walker only part of the time when we had the culottes confrontation. I was speaking to a group at Camrose and getting ready at her house. "What are you going to wear, a skirt I hope." "Uh, yeah." "Not Culottes." "Yes, actually I am wearing culottes." "Well if you knew what you looked like from behind."

She wore high heel pumps when she was past 90 because flats were too casual with her good dresses. She wore beautiful rings when her dear old hands were almost too frail to lift them and lovely softly draped scarves when she became flat chested even with a "good bra." Mom was amazing and wonderful and she loved us to bits and we loved her in return. Sometimes she was a pain in the neck. Aren't we all.

Words from Westglen

Again it has been a busy couple of weeks here. Our annual Showcase was a big success. Parents and other guests were treated to cuisine from France, England, Japan, Greece and China in Mr. Caldwell's room and to chocolate cookies in Mrs. Connolly's Practical Arts lab. Mr. Miller's Science 8 students explained principles of physical science like why various balls bounce to different heights, which rocks are which, capillary action in celery and what effect adding salt has on the temperature of water. French 8 students presented well-known fairy tales on stage in French and Mrs. Visser's LA 7 students demonstrated some Reader's Theatre. All rooms were alive with student projects and displays. Grade 8C won the Driver's Manual Reach for the Top.

They were victorious over 8B and 8A in their Jeopardy-like contest. Thank you to community members who donated bells for the competition.

Track and Field teams have been selected and will attend the County Track Meet in Carstairs on Tuesday. Good luck and thank you to Mr. Miller, Mr. Thompson and Mr. Caukill for their excellent coaching.

Now that the weather is pleasant, many classes are embarking on field trips or out of classroom activities. Mrs. Israelson's French 6s visited the K & W for "la creme glace" and would like to thank Andrea Moffit and Sandy Kinch for bravely filling the orders in french and for their very efficient service for 31 students. Grade 5 students have gone swimming and on Tuesday are going to Calgary to the Glenbow and the IMAX to view the film Wolves. Grade 6 students have visited the zoo, the Science Centre and the Aviation Museum in the past week.

As part of their poetry unit, Grade 8 LA students enjoyed the recitations of poetry by Hazel Youngs. "Casey at the Bat" and the "Revenge of Casey" were the favorites.

One final WOW activity will be a trip to Calaway Park on June 5. The cost is $16 (admission and bus). Buses will leave Westglen at 10 a.m. and will return home by 5 p.m. Sign-up is being held from May 20 to June 1. If you have any questions, phone Mrs. Israelson at Westglen.

The final band concert is June 2 at 7 p.m. See you there.

Museum Musings: admission fee instituted

By Marg Weaver

The monthly meeting of the Museum Board was held on May 19. Several of our upcoming events were finalized.

On June 1, a band concert will be held on the Museum Grounds, under the direction of Jeff Wegner. We have been asked to serve dessert and beverages, which we will provide for a nominal cost. A music display will be set up in the Museum for this event.

On June 5, our Plant Sale will be held starting at 9 a.m. We are still looking for donations of plants for this sale.

In conjunction with the Plant Sale, another memorable event will be held.

1999 has been designated "The Year of the Senior," to acknowledge the role seniors have played during the past century. To commemorate this, the province of Alberta has sponsored a Tree Planting Project. Qualified groups such as museums, schools, churches and other public venues have been offered trees for planting on their grounds. The only requirement is that seniors must be present at the plantings.

Your Museum made a request for three trees. We have been accepted and will receive three White Spruce. This planting will take place at 10 a.m. on June 5. We are asking for your attendance at this ceremony, especially the seniors of our community. As president of the Museum and also a senior, I will make a short speech to acknowledge this occasion.

Maybe, at a future date, we could put up a plaque to remember this occasion.

I know there are several other events being held on June 5, but please give us a little of your time, maybe after the Mayor's Prayer Breakfast and before you go to the Canada Day Garage Sale.

You could even buy a plant or two for your garden while you are there.

The Seniors Games Committee have asked our permission to set up and run a souvenir table at this event as well. We have agreed to their request.

We will be discontinuing the First Thursday of the Month Teas. They were not a success. A lot of work with no results.

Maybe something more profitable could be an option later on.

We have decided to set an admission fee for the Museum. $2 for adults. Card members and children will be admitted free of charge. Yearly memberships are $5 for single and $10 for family.

We look forward to seeing you at the Tree Planting and Plant Sale.

As relevant as three pigs are, your problem is seven dwarfs.

TOES TAPPING

The music at the Koinonia music festival on Wednesday got everyone's toes tapping.

Spruce Ridge has new principal

New teaching staff for the 1999 school year:

Dorothy Moore plans to move to Edmonton to be closer to children and grandchildren, and will be stepping down as principal of Spruce Ridge at the end of the school year. Moore, a long time member of the community, has become part of the Spruce Ridge family. We will miss her and wish her all the best. Should Moore stay in the area, she will continue her involvement with the school on a part-time basis.

We are pleased to announce Pat Nawyn-Pilat will join Spruce Ridge as school principal in September. Pilat holds degrees and diplomas from Canadian and US universities and colleges, and will teach our junior high and high school classes. Pilat is particularly strong in mathematics, computers and music. For recreation, Pilat hopes to start a choir, which will sing at community and church events. Pilat and her family moved to the district a year ago. Pilat is presently the assistant principal at Calgary Christian School - a school with over 600 pupils. Welcome to Spruce Ridge.

Henrietta Henry will join Spruce Ridge as our new elementary school teacher. Henry has over 30 years of elementary teaching experience, virtually all in small rural schools, with particular expertise in Curriculum Building, Special Education and Language Arts. In addition, Henry holds several graduate degrees, including an MA in 'Special Education with an Emphasis on Reading,' and an ME in 'Childhood Education.' Henry currently teaches Grades 1 to 6 at the Koinonia Christian School in Fox Creek, AB. Like Nawyn-Pilat, Henry's reputation is excellent, and we look forward to having her with us. Welcome.

Meet our new principal:

Everybody is welcome at a special open house on June 2 at 7 p.m. at the school. Come out for coffee and cake, and meet Pat Nawyn-Pilat. Bring your children. Many Spruce Ridge parents will be on hand to answer any questions you might have about the school. Spruce Ridge is now accepting applications for fall registration, ECS to Grade 12. If you'd like an information package or have any questions, please call us at 637-2449. To find the school, drive three miles west from Highway 22 on the Water Valley Rd (Highway 579), then 1.5 miles north, then another half mile west. Watch for signs.

Home schoolers and our facilities:

There are many home schooling families in the Water Valley area, and we would like to make them feel welcome at Spruce Ridge. In the new school year we would like to offer the use of our facilities (including our full sized gymnasium) to all interested home schooling families on a regular basis. What would work best for you? If you are interested please call Dorothy Moore at the school to discuss options.

Lodge news

By Annie Caush

Hi all. We hope all the mothers had a nice Mother's Day last weekend. Here at the lodge we got beautiful corsages from the auxiliary and most of us got flowers or other gifts and quite a few were able to get out for a little while with family. It was really a pleasant weekend, even if the weather could have been nicer.

We have had several trips. One to Red Deer for shopping, one to a greenhouse for bedding plants and one to Sundre Lodge to their Spring Tea. These were all enjoyed by those who were able to go.

Our newest residents are Don and Ann Harper and Vi Mihailoff. We welcome you and hope you soon feel at home.

In hospital we have Ivy Colley, Avis Collin and Helen Weidman. We hope you soon feel much better.

Hire a Student

Most universities and colleges are out for the summer, and the local high school year will be ending soon, so now comes the time for many students to find summer jobs.

Errin Nelson is the new Hire a Student Coordinator for the Town of Olds, and will help students from Olds, Didsbury and Sundre find employment for the summer.

The service opened May 16, and Nelson says that he's been quite busy setting up students for employment with businesses around the area.

He says the jobs vary from odd jobs that last only a few hours, like gardening and loading trucks, to full-time summer positions.

Nelson says that it's a free program to both students and businesses, where he will match up the students with jobs that most suit them, and vice versa.

Nelson is also in charge of a job creation program, in which he will help more entrepreneurial-minded students come up with job ideas for themselves.

If any students are interested in the Hire a Student program, you can call Errin Nelson at 556-7282, or drop by and see him at the new Town of Olds office.

Teen of the Year

It's a pretty big honour to be selected for such a prestigious award as the Calgary Sun's Most Outstanding Teen of the Year. And that honour goes to Didsbury's own Darren Jacobson.

Jacobson, 17, was selected as the Teen of the Year out of thousands of entries from Calgary and its surrounding communities. He, along with four other Calgary teens, received their awards last month in the city.

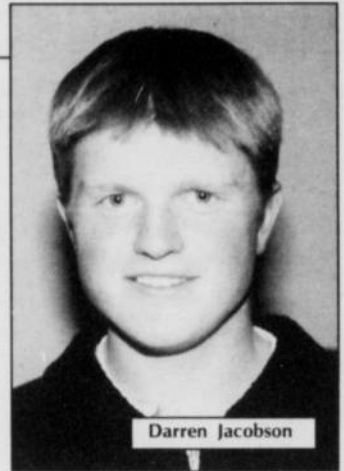

Jacobson was nominated by Mary Devolin for all the excellent standard of work that he's shown at Nip & Bone Pet Boarding and Grooming, where he's worked since he was 11.

Jacobson said that the nomination was based on his desire to work, his safety consciousness, for always being on time for work and for being such a good learner.

"It made me feel really good that there were people out there who would do something like that for me," he said of the nomination.

After a luncheon at the Hard Rock Cafe in Calgary, Jacobson and his four fellow honourees, were awarded a ton of prizes including tickets to the Alberta Theatre, CDs and movie passes.

Jacobson continues his hard work at Nip & Bone, doing some farm work as well as taking care of the dogs there.

Marion Hemming

Vegetables wanted

Although many people have already begun planting their gardens for the summer, the Didsbury Food Bank has a small request for you.

Marion Hemming, of the Food Bank, is asking gardeners to plant a row of vegetables to donate this summer.

She says they will accept any kind of vegetables people are willing to offer, such as potatoes, carrots, onions and lettuce.

Hemming says that a cooler will be posted at Olds College to keep the donations in, for people throughout Mountain View County.

Hemming would also like to acknowledge all the support for the Food Bank that was received at the 1999 Show and Shine.

Over $400 in food was donated, as well as $810 in cash for the Food Bank.

"The people in Didsbury are just incredible," she said. "How do you say thank you to people who are so generous. There's always a constant flow of food. Talk about the spirit of Didsbury, it's there."

Volunteer Service

Working in unison with the Hire a Student, is the Volunteer program, headed by Stan Dyjur.

Dyjur ran the Hire a Student program last year, but this summer will focus on helping younger kids (aged 11-15) fill those long summer days.

The idea behind the Volunteer program is that kids can volunteer at local businesses for a maximum of six hours a week, and earn credits towards fun activities that are planned for this summer.

"The businesses have been very inviting to this idea," Dyjur said of the program.

Some of the fieldtrips that he has planned for this summer are: a trip to West Edmonton Mall, white water rafting, go-carting and a trip to Calaway Park in Calgary.

Dyjur is planning on approaching many of the local schools to get the word out about this program.

He says it's a great way for younger kids to gain useful work experience for when they are old enough to enter the workforce.

"It also a great way for parents to get those kids out of the house this summer," he said.

You can reach Stan Dyjur at 556-6981 or find him at the new Town of Olds office.

Focus on the Family

James C. Dobson, PH. D., is founder and president of Focus on the Family, a non-profit organization dedicated to the preservation of the home. Dr. Dobson is married, the father of two grown children, and resides in Colorado. For 14 years he was an associate clinical professor of pediatrics and the university of Southern California School of Medicine, and served for 17 years on the attending staff of the Children's Hospital of Los Angeles. He has also been heavily involved in governmental activities relating to the preservation of the family.

QUESTION: We're going to move to another state in a few months. I know it's going to be tough for my children, who have so many little friends at school. How can I get them ready for life in a new city?

DR. DOBSON: Moving to a new school or a new town can be an unpleasant experience for children, but there are some ways to make it easier for them.

Preparation and forethought are the keys. Educator Cheri Fuller recommends that those who are about to relocate call a family meeting to talk about what's going to happen. Begin to lay plans together. It's sad to say goodbye to good friends, and it's hard to make new ones. Try establishing pen pals for your children in the new school long before the move is to occur. Relationships can blossom through the mail so that the kids are not entirely unknown in the new location.

It's also helpful to create curiosity about the new city or neighborhood you're moving to. Write to the state tourist bureau or to the Chamber of Commerce and ask for brochures and maps. When your children begin to understand the adventure of moving, they may develop a more positive attitude toward leaving. A bit of preparation and a healthy dose of communication can help clear the way for a smoother journey to a new home.

QUESTION: When my wife left me for another man, I felt like the whole thing was my fault. I still feel that way. I had never even looked at another woman, yet here I am taking the blame for her affair. Rationally, I know I'm being very unfair to myself, but I can't help it. Or can I?

DR. DOBSON: It is the typical reaction of a rejected spouse like yourself to take full responsibility for the behavior of an unfaithful spouse. The wounded partner -- the person who was clearly the victim of the other's irresponsibility -- is the one who suffers the greatest pangs of guilt and feelings of inferiority.

How strange that the one who tried to hold things together in the face of obvious rejection often finds himself or herself wondering: "How did I fail? I just wasn't good enough to hold my spouse. I am nothing, or my partner wouldn't have left. If only I had been more exciting as a sexual partner. I drove my spouse away -- I wasn't pretty or handsome enough. I didn't deserve my spouse in the first place."

The blame for marital disintegration is seldom the fault of the husband or wife alone. It takes two to tangle, and there is always some measure of shared blame for a divorce. However, when one marriage partner makes up her mind to behave irresponsibly, to become involved extramaritally, or to run from family commitments and obligations, she usually seeks to justify her behavior by magnifying the failures of her spouse. "You didn't meet my needs, so I had to satisfy them somewhere else," is the familiar accusation. By increasing the guilt of her partner in this way, she reduces her own culpability. For a husband or wife with low self-esteem, these charges and recriminations are accepted and internalized as indisputable facts.

You must resist the temptation to take all the blame. I'm not recommending that you sit around hating the memory of your wife. Bitterness and resentment are emotional cancers that rot us from within. However, I would encourage you to examine the facts carefully.

Ask yourself these questions: "Despite my many mistakes and failures in my marriage, did I value my family and try to preserve it? Did my wife decide to destroy it, and then seek justification for her actions? Was I given a fair chance to resolve the areas of greatest irritation? Could I have held her even if I had made all the changes she wanted? Is it reasonable that I should hate myself for this thing that has happened?"

If you examine objectively what has occurred, you might begin to see yourself as a victim of your wife's irresponsibility rather than as a worthless failure at the game of love.

ART SMART

Home schooled kids had a chance to bring their talents out for the public to see. A creative arts and music festival was held at the Olds Evergreen Centre for students and parents to show off what they have accomplished this year. Some performed instrumentals, voice, and even a magic show, while others showed off pieces of art they had completed.

Regional Hospital Auxiliary

By Annie Pringle

On May 5, in the Assembly Room of the Nursing Home, 19 members from Region 5 HSA met for their spring meeting.

Bonnie Porat welcomed all the ladies and stated that she was proud to work with dedicated ladies and asked that the groups keep in touch with her for help in the continuing care of the patients.

President Freda Derkson reported on the annual AHAA convention on Oct. 26, 1998. The topic had been "Celebrating the Past - Preparing for the Future."

Millie Lennox from Rosebud Health Foundation spoke on having such a charitable organization and stressed that all donations receive an income tax deductible receipt.

Dean England, the pharmacist for the hospital, spoke on the use of alternative drug therapies. It was most interesting.

All Hospital Auxiliary members gave a short report of their activities and each has been very busy in their hospital.

Freda closed the meeting at 2:30 p.m. with a 'safe journey home' wish.

Didsbury Mayor, Ray Lea and town employee Mike Phillips turn sod in the new industrial park.

Dirt moving and sales starting in new town owned industrial park

By Ceilidh McClurg

The Mayor of Didsbury, Ray Lea, and a town employee, Mike Phillips officially turned the sod in a new planned industrial park on the north end of town.

The land, which was recently purchased by the town, has now been redesignated to allow for light industrial ventures such as light repair shops, warehousing operations, manufacturing, veterinarian services etcetera.

The next step, says town CAO, Evan Parliament is to apply for the subdivision of that property to make room for a total of nine large lots.

Parliament says he felt it was important for the town to purchase the property north of the town shop so that they could give industrial development a boost.

Industrial development was identified by residents surveyed last year to be an important part of the growth of the town.

Parliament says, "The town is being pro-active in terms of development with this."

All of the services are beginning to go in, using town personnel to save on the costs.

"We are doing it ourselves entirely," says Parliament.

So far, there are a number of conditional offers on the table for pieces of the land.

It may also be used as the future site of a new RCMP station if the town makes the decision to build a new detachment.

Parliament says there are still a number of lots left, and anyone interested can contact him at the town office.

Main Street Design contest

A few creative people are being sought to help bring colour and life to downtown. The Main Street Project is sponsoring a street light banner design contest.

The Chamber, Town and the Main Street Project plan on having three sets of banners up each year. There is already a set of Christmas banners, however the long term plan is to have a winter/ spring theme set and a summer/ autumn set to capture all of the seasons and atmospheres in Didsbury.

Dave Mohr, Main Street coordinator says he believes having your design chosen would be a unique way to leave a legacy in the Town of Didsbury.

And, it could mean a little extra spending money too.

Over $150 in prize money is offered to the designs judged most suitable.

The contest ends on June 15 and submissions may be made at the Chamber/ Main Street Project office or the Town Office.

The following rules must follow:

- banners are hung on an 18" wide support banner and must be either 36" or 48" tall
- there is a maximum of four colours allowed, including any background colour
- theme of the designs may either be winter/ spring or summer/ fall themes
- 1999 Alberta Seniors Games banners (based on the Seniors Games poster) may be incorporated into the design, all other design work must be original work of the entrant
- banners will be judged on clarity, appropriateness and appeal
- by entering the contest the entrant transfers all rights to the Town of Didsbury for use by the Town at its sole discretion

Interested applicants are invited to pick up an application and rule sheet at the Town Office or Chamber/ Main Street Project Office (2009 - 20th Ave.)

More information may be had by calling Dave Mohr at 335-3265.

Alberta welcomes US cattle trade ruling

The Government of Alberta expressed satisfaction in the preliminary decision by the United States Department of Commerce (DOC) not to impose provisional countervailing duties on Canadian cattle shipments to the United States. In its preliminary determination, although the DOC found that a small number of government programs may be countervailable, the estimated subsidy level was almost negligible.

"Although this is only a preliminary determination, we're satisfied with the overall outcome," said Ed Stelmach, Minister of Agriculture, Food and Rural Development. "This decision confirms what we've said all along. Alberta cattle are not being unfairly subsidized - plain and simple."

The countervail investigation will still continue, with the DOC making a final subsidy determination later this fall. This is one of two trade cases brought against Canada by the Ranchers-Cattlemen Action Legal Foundation (R-CALF), a coalition of US ranchers. A preliminary determination on the second trade action, an anti-dumping investigation, is expected in late June.

"Alberta will continue to work closely with the cattle industry, other provinces and the federal government as this investigation proceeds," said Stelmach. "This case is far from over. It has required a lot of manpower and financial resources to respond to this trade action by R-CALF. But, we are confident that, in the end, we will clearly show that Canadian cattle are traded fairly."

"This is a long and complicated investigation, and we're pleased that this ruling does not adversely affect Alberta cattle producers," said Dave Hancock, Minister of Inter-governmental and Aboriginal Affairs. "We will continue to defend our programs. We remain committed to making full use of the review procedures in the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) and the World Trade Organization (WTO) if necessary."

Alberta's cattle industry would be the most affected by an unfavourable ruling. The province maintains the largest cattle herd in the country and accounts for almost two-thirds of Canada's total cattle slaughtering activity.

In 1998, Alberta exported 574,000 head of cattle to the US (excluding pure-bred breeding cattle) with a value of $694 million.

Alberta gets high marks from world

Dr. Temple Grandin, a designer of livestock handling facilities around the world and a strong advocate of animal welfare, has given high marks to the Alberta industry.

The highly respected authority on modern methods of livestock handling is an assistant professor of Animal Science at Colorado State University. Facilities she has designed are located in Canada, the United States, Europe, Mexico, Australia, New Zealand and other countries.

Grandin will be conducting her next round of animal handling reviews at Alberta packing plants in June.

She concludes, "Canadians overall are ahead of the US on animal welfare issues. You had codes of practice ways before we did. In 1991 we did our first code of practice for meat packing plants but you (Canada) already had codes of practice for the entire industry prior to that."

Grandin also gives high marks to the Alberta Farm

Animal Care Association, commending this group for some "really good progressive things."

"One of the things I feel very strong about is that as an industry we have to communicate with the public. We've got to open our doors and show what's going on in meat plants and on farms. I've found that when I brought people from the general public to a farm or meat plant, they usually are pleasantly surprised."

She offers tips for cattle producers. She says that when she first started working on how to best handle cattle, she got right down in the chutes to see the little things that cattle see that makes them balk. A little piece of chain hanging down in the chute or a shadow will create stress in the animal. Grandin adds it's really important to get these things out of your facilities.

HANDSOME HORSE

The Didsbury heavy horse industry is the perfect place for this champion. Grandview Sir El Capitan, a three year old black stallion has a long list of ribbons and trophies above his stall including Reserve 1998 All American Stallion and many grand champion stallion ribbons from shows across the United States. The stallion has been brought to the area by Don and Jan Irwin after being shown around the US and coming home with a suitcase full of honors.

Ashbury Design home full of surprises

Right, Morris Monk of Ashbury Design sits at the elegant eating bar in the kitchen of his new showhome.

Below, Monk and draftsman Dwayne Williams of Williams Design discuss plans for the future show home.

By Ceilidh McClurg

No detail escapes the watchful eye of Morris Monk, owner of Ashbury Design.

That becomes very obvious upon entering his newly built show home in Didsbury. From the floors to the ceiling, there is a commitment to make this more than a house, but a beautiful home that brings all the values of quality and excellence into one place.

"I am very meticulous," he admits adding that it can sometimes result in much more work for him as a builder, but it also results in a much happier customer. "When it comes down to the design and planning, I make sure everything is laid out properly."

He says that this comes from his years of experience in design and drafting. But, it is his experience as a builder for more than 13 years that takes those plans from a concept into a stunning finished product.

Monk has spent years in the building industry, having started in 1986 with Ashbury Design in Winnipeg. Prior to that he had worked as a framer and finishing carpenter.

He recently moved his company to Didsbury because he saw an opportunity to custom build his unique homes.

There are many things that stand out about an Ashbury Design home. They certainly aren't typical.

At first glance the home is set apart from your typical home in a new development. The first sign of individuality is the front elevation which is totally clad in stone and stucco.

Monk says he has moved away from the vinyl look and instead uses stone fronts on his homes because he believes it adds a certain elegance to the curb appeal.

But, it is once you walk inside that you really notice the difference. It is a small show home with only about 1400 square feet, but the detail and the workmanship come together to make it appear like a high end home. First, there is the wide open foyer which invites guests into a warm atmosphere.

Ceilings are cottage vaulted, a feature which is typically reserved for high end homes.

"I've always been willing to try new and innovative ideas in decorating and construction," says Monk. "You don't need a huge house to have these kinds of luxuries." He points to a fireplace and hearth faced with granite tile that would surely make anyone feel like royalty.

The walls are not white, nor are they dividing each space into oblivion. Instead there is a sense of openness, which is accented by the huge windows and ample lighting.

The kitchen is something out of a millionaire's mansion, yet it is right here. Accent lighting, built in appliances, a corner pantry, a wine rack and more.

Moving down the hall you come upon a master bedroom fit for a king. Double doors lead into the room where a tray ceiling and angles are used effectively to make the room feel open and spacious.

It is then that you realize the wonderful secret that lurks inside. An elegant ensuite that features a gorgeous whirlpool tub surrounded by a ceramic tile deck and a frosted window to allow daylight in, but to maintain your privacy. But, if you need more than just a good soak, turn around and behind you'll find a four foot shower stall.

Returning to the centre of the warm home, you will find a winding staircase that leads to the basement. Monk says that the biggest attraction to the basement is that it is not dark, dingy and cold like most basements. There are over-sized windows that let in so much natural light you truly feel you are above ground. The floor uses a revolutionary design component not found in most area homes. It features a suspended wood floor, which means no running across the floor to the laundry in an attempt keep your feet warm.

Monk says this particular design has raised a lot of attention, and he says, it is the most practical. The floor combined with a heated crawl space is less expensive and more comfortable than cold, hard, damp concrete.

Monk says that even if any of this doesn't impress, he is willing to find out what does impress you.

He will alter designs to suit your needs, or will be a knowledgeable blank slate upon which a family building a home can sketch out their own idea of perfect.

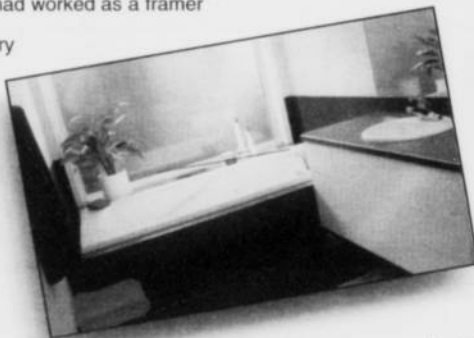

"Bring me your ideas and we can put them all together on paper," he says.

Monk also says that he is a builder willing to take the time to sit, discuss, and work through the building process with a client, to be sure that when it's all done it is their picture perfect idea of their own dream home.

To bring together all of the elements to custom build these types of home isn't an accident, says Monk. He will only work with the best quality suppliers and tradespeople. Therefore, he can bring that type of promise to his clients.

"We take pride in the fact that our standard specifications are superior to most other builders' standard specifications," says Monk.

"Anyone that wants a well-built home with superior workmanship and materials should check out the showhome," says Monk. In fact, even if you're not in the market for a new home, taking a look at Ashbury Design Home is worth the dream.

ALBERTA AGRICULTURE, FOOD AND RURAL DEVELOPMENT

Regional Advisory Services

One acre of Ontario corn produces enough oxygen for 130 people, states an article in Furrow magazine. In addition, that acre also consumes 10 tons of carbon dioxide. Much of that carbon ends up in the corn stalks which then enrich the soil with organic matter.

organic matter.

"Plants do an excellent job of bringing carbon released into the air back to the soil," said Gordon Frank, crop specialist with Alberta Agriculture, Food and Rural Development, Brooks. "In the Eastern Irrigation District of Alberta, about 300,000 acres are irrigated. If the average oxygen production is estimated at 2/3 of Ontario corn, then each acre provides oxygen for 86 people. The total supported in this one production area in the province is about 25 million people, and this estimate doesn't even count the other 1.2 million dryland crop and rangeland acres in the County of Newell, in southern Alberta."

What about carbon dioxide absorption? At 6.6 tons absorbed per acre, the resulting carbon from over 700,000 litres of burned gasoline is absorbed, an impressive amount.

"In Alberta, more producers are also engaging in direct seeding," said Frank. "Direct seeding implies zero tillage. As a result, more carbon stays in the soil and eventually becomes very stable humus. Direct seeding also reduces tractor hours to less than half of normal and that means fuel use drops significantly which also reduces carbon dioxide production, a win-win situation."

The recent Kyoto Agreement clearly pointed to the need to reduce emissions. The efficiency and high production of today's agriculture makes for a better environment. Research into even more efficient farming, environmentally sustainable agriculture practices, pest resistant crops that reduce the need for pesticides, stronger and more vigorous seed varieties and many other technological advancements are continually being worked on.

How to stop accidents from cropping up.

Every year, farmers and ranchers throughout Alberta accidentally damage buried facilities while digging or disturbing the ground causing serious damage, injury and sometimes even death.

To reduce the risk of these accidents happening to you, call Alberta One-Call at least two full working days before you dig and find out where the hidden hazards are at no cost to you. Just remember, it's your responsibility to hand expose these facilities before you proceed. When it comes to safety, we're in the right field.

Bill Boyd moves up in the standings

Five of the six victors at the Black Mountain Pro Rodeo in Kelowna, BC, last weekend can boast not only of their wins, but also of substantial moves in the Canadian standings.

The biggest move was made by steer wrestler David Gibson who, after winning the bulldogging in a swift 4.4-second run, leapt up in the rankings from 22nd to 10th. Gibson is aiming for his third Canadian Finals Rodeo qualification, and second in a row, after an absence of four years from the national championships.

The Hardisty, AB, cowboy had won $1,460 before last weekend, with earnings at two mid-April rodeos, after a fourth at the Kananaskis Pro Rodeo in Coleman, AB, and a split of fifth at the Makin' 8 Silver Buckle Pro Rodeo in Red Deer. The win, though, almost doubled his winnings, and put him in good position for the CFR early in the rodeo season.

Former CPRA rookie of the year Curtis Cassidy also shot up the standings, with a win in the calf roping. The two-event cowboy, who has made the CFR twice - once in the roping and once in the steer wrestling - moved all the way from 17th to 10th in the standings, after a 7.4-second run at Kelowna.

Also making a big move in the rankings was bronc rider Dan

Black, who's trying to repeat his success of last year, with another CFR qualification. He rode Big Stone Rodeo's Wolf Creek Skool for 81 points to add $1,149 to his 1999 earnings, and moved from 14th to 6th in the saddle bronc standings.

Other winners included bull rider Reuben Geleynse and bareback rider Bill Boyd, who both scored 85 points, and bettered their positions within the top 10. Ontario cowboy Geleynse moved from 10th to 6th after a battle with Big Stone Rodeo's Ram Tough Casper, while two-time Canadian champion, Boyd, moved from 6th to 3rd after impressing the judges with his ride on Big Stone's Flashback.

Three-time and reigning Canadian ladies barrel racing champion, Debbie Renger (Guelly), was the other winner in the major events over the weekend, maintaining her hold in second place behind Monica Wilson.

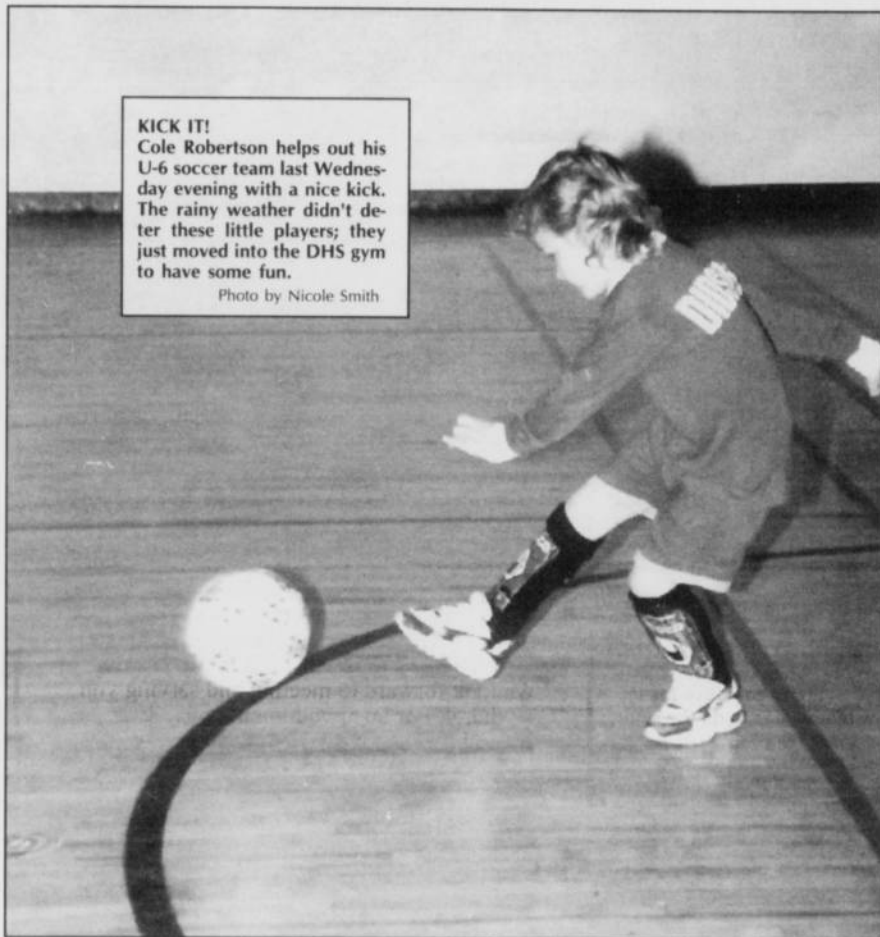

Wilson still leads all contestants in earnings for the year, with almost $10,000, but Renger is creeping up on her, with another $860 added after her 15.52-second run at Kelowna.

In the novice saddle bronc, Jesse Dutchik topped his event with a 72-point ride to win his first paycheck of the season. That moved the 20-year-old straight into third in the standings.

KICK IT!

Cole Robertson helps out his U-6 soccer team last Wednesday evening with a nice kick. The rainy weather didn't deter these little players; they just moved into the DHS gym to have some fun.

The "Spring Swing" was a great day. This is a blind mixed draw, which is a great way to meet people and the barbecue was great on a totally beautiful day.

Big winners were: Charlie Topping, Bruce Dunn, Dave Fife and Al Armour.

Second place went to: Andrew Sweetman, Ernie Hoeft, Glenn Hardy and Candice Duroschure.

Upcoming events are as follows:

May 30 - Ladies 2 Ball, 9 a.m.

June 6 - Mens 2 Ball, 9 a.m.

June 13 - Mr/ Mrs, Him/ Her, 9 a.m.

June 16 - Seniors Mixed Open, 9:30 a.m.

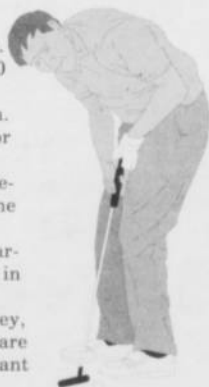

June 23 - Ladies Invitational, 6 p.m.

Phone the clubhouse at 335-3635 for all details and to register.

The UFA Annual Tournament is being held June 11. Phone Jim and Daphne Walroth at 337-3452 for all info.

The new "Tournament Room" is nearing completion and will get lots of use in the month of June.

The grounds crew, Marvin, Harvey, Ray and Ray have been very busy and are hoping for some decent weather to plant the flowers.

Wow! Do we have a busy spring and summer planned. Are you ready?

The National Summer Active program is underway. We have a lot of fun and exciting programs and challenges going on.

Our 50+ gang will be treated to a luncheon and fun fitness day on June 25. They will also participate in our 1999 Km Klub challenge of 1999 laps. One 50+ class equals 50 laps; two classes equals 50 laps and three classes equals 80 laps.

Pamphlets and health guides on active living and healthy lifestyles will be available to everyone.

1999 is also the International Year of the Elderly. The Aquatic Centre will be gearing up for the Seniors Games with an ongoing "Salute to Seniors" display. Drop by and check it out.

KM Klub Challenge: We challenge all our lap participants to achieve 1999 laps before July 16. We will be charting everyone's progress. So go for it.

Aquacize participants are also encouraged to take part. You will receive an 80 lap bonus for every hour long class you attend. Don't miss out on our new "Aquatic Circuit Training" class. Starting May 31 from 8:15 to 9:15 p.m.

Summer Active Business Challenges all businesses to get their employees out to our evening aquacize and circuit classes.

Each time you come you enter to win a Summer Active prize for yourself as well as a pool party for you and your fellow employees. Come join the fitness wave every Monday and Wednesday evening from 8:15 to 9:15 p.m.

Water Safety Week is here again, May 31 to June 6. We will be having colouring contests and other activities promoting water safety.

Hey kids! "School's Out Pool Party" is just around the corner, June 26. Stay tuned for more details.

Come join in the fun at the Didsbury Aquatic Centre.

Didsbury Pee Wees battle it out

By Garnet Whalen

On Monday in a battle of the undefeated, the Didsbury Dominators beat the Didsbury Junior Jets 14-11 in a game featuring bad changes, a home run (no errors on play) and some excellent hitting and fielding from both teams.

Round one goes to a well-coached team by Grant Edwards, but look out next time.

On Wednesday, Olds #1 came to town and fought our boys to a 14-14 draw. Despite the rain and cold, the boys had to get two in the last inning for the tie. Well played boys.

Come out and watch our next home game.

In our team roster is Terrell Wiebe. Sorry for the misprint.

OVERTIME

The Big Czech versus the Big Swede.

At least that's how the series was supposed to be, but it's turned into the Big Czech vs. the Big Russian; Jagr vs. D i m i t r i Yushkevich.

The Maple Leafs' Yushkevich and Daniil Markov have been given the difficult task of covering the Pens' top line of Jagr, Martin Straka, and German Thov. The duo were also given the assignment in the first round of covering Philadelphia's John LeClair, Rod Brind'Amour and Mark Recchi. They have done an outstanding job in both series.

The 29-year-old Yushkevich, known to his teammates as Yushkie, has been labelled as inconsistent by many critics for the past four seasons with the Maple Leafs. But he has proven his critics wrong this season under the guidance of Head Coach Pat Quinn, and he has even taken on a new role in leadership being given the "A" once in a while. He responded by bleaching his hair, or what was left, blond and trying to convince his fellow teammates to do the same for the playoffs.

Markov, who just turned 23, is handling the pressures of guarding the league's top lines with great confidence. The rookie is a fierce competitor who can block shots with the best of them, night in and night out. CBC's Harry Neale thought that Markov could have been nominated for the Calder Trophy (for rookie of the year) for his consistent defensive play.

The Leafs have also elected to use 21-year-old rookie Tomas Kaberle as Sylvian Cole's defense partner rather than the big 240 lb. Chris McAllister. Kaberle has responded with a couple of assists, and has shown remarkable poise for such a young kid. The baby-faced Czech has incredible offensive instincts and can carry the puck smoothly on the power play.

Of course regulars such as Mats Sundin, Bryan Berard, Alexander Karpoustev, Steve Thomas, Sergei Berezin and goaltender Curtis Joseph have been solid throughout the playoffs.

The Buds still have their work cut out for them if they want to finish off Pittsburgh and if they hope to bring home the Stanley Cup. It should be a great four weeks of post-season action.

Bantam ball news

Coached by Vickie Poffenroth and Robert St. Jacques, who also coaches the Mites, the Spitshooters will travel to Calgary for the Bow River Tournament on May 29 and 30.

In spite of cool and wet weather, the team has won games against Crossfield, 23-7, and Carstairs, 12-4. They lost to Airdrie, 8-9, and came from behind with a three-run homer by Kali Dedels to tie Innisfail 14 all.

Lead by captains Christi Fillmore, Chelsie Poffenroth and Kali Dedels, the team plays at home (Jets diamond) every Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. Come out and cheer for the Spitshooters.

Thank you to everyone who supported the Didsbury Bantam ball team at the Show and Shine. The girls raised money through a bake sale, raffle and face painting. Thank you also to the local businesses that donated items.

I got caught.
I dumped 74 drums of hazardous waste into a farmer's field near Didsbury. The cost of the clean up was over $10,000 and was paid for by the man who hired me. I thought I could make a quick $700 but I made a terrible mistake. I lost my job.

Helmet supporters frustrated by minister's decision

Supporters of mandatory bicycle helmet legislation are adamantly opposed to the Minister of Transportation and Utilities' suggestion that municipalities would be given the ability to opt out of the province-wide regulations.

Wednesday's statements are not consistent with those made by the Minister six weeks ago. In a press release of March 31, Minister Walter Paszkowski stated the following:

"Input from municipalities, other organizations and the public suggested that a province-wide rule should be established. As a result, these two items will be dealt with provincially under the Rules of the Road Regulations and Equipment Regulations."

"Mr. Paszkowski's statement in March made us believe that he understood the importance of having province-wide laws regarding bike helmets. Letting the municipalities opt out is not an acceptable solution," said Joanne Vincenten, Executive Director, Alberta Centre for Injury Control and Research.

Stakeholders told the minister in January that mandatory bike helmets must be dealt with provincially. If the municipalities are able to opt out a patchwork of differing laws will result. It will be difficult to inform the public about the laws and the areas where they are in effect.

Confusion among the public will create difficulties for enforcement by the municipalities. If enforcement is difficult, enforcement rates will be lower, thereby undermining the importance of the law and the contribution it can make to the safety of Albertans.

It is the responsibility of the Government of Alberta to enhance the safety of its citizens by enacting provincial legislation and regulations regarding mandatory bicycle helmets.

The Minister seems to think that Albertans are not committed to mandatory bicycle helmet legislation.

But supporters are questioning the Minister's sources of information when he states that "the communication we're getting is close to 50-50" regarding support for mandatory bicycle helmets.

But the public consultations he discussed in March have not yet been done.

"Where is the science in the Minister's survey?" questions Jackie Petruk, Director of SAFE KIDS, Children's Health Centre.

A scientific study conducted by the Population Laboratory at the University of Alberta says that 72.5% of Albertans are in favour of mandatory helmet laws for children 18 and under and 65.4% are in favour of it for all ages.

A survey of Alberta parents shows that 77% are in favour for all ages.

"How many surveys do we have to do before he knows that this is what Albertans want?" asks Petruk.

Members of the public are urged to call Minister Paszkowski at (780) 427-2080 to express their support for mandatory bicycle helmet legislation.

PRAYER CORNER

PRAYER TO the Blessed Virgin - O most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, blessed Mother of the Son of God, immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth; I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to secure me in my necessity. There are none that can withstand your power. Oh, show me herein You are my Mother. Oh, Holy Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to Thee. Holy Mother, I place this cause in Your hands. Pray this prayer for three consecutive days and your wish will be granted no matter how difficult it may be. Promise to publish this prayer as soon as your favor has been granted. Grateful thanks. OBITUARY

CUNNINGHAM: Mr. Clarence Andrew (Hoop) Cunningham passed away on Sunday, May 9 in Saskatoon at the age of 80. He was born in Medicine Hat, AB on Oct. 10, 1918. At that time his parents were homesteading on a quarter section at Empress. The following year they moved to Didsbury where he lived until joining the Royal Canadian Air Force. He took all of his schooling in Didsbury, graduating from grade 12 in 1936. For the next four years he worked mostly at carpentry work. CA Cunningham joined the Royal Canadian Air Force on Jan. 7, 1941 in Calgary. He trained at Brandon & Rivers, Manitoba, Regina, Edmonton and Saskatoon. At Saskatoon he was promoted to the rank of Pilot Officer and awarded his pilot's wing. After further navigational training at Charlottetown, PEI he was sent overseas leaving Canada late in 1941. Then followed three months on an Operational Training Unit at Stranraer and Invergordon in Scotland. From June 5, 1942 until May 13, 1943 he completed a tour of operations with #202 Squadron, an RAF squadron flying Sunderlands and Catalinas on convoy escort and anti-submarine work from their base at Gibraltar. Posted back to the UK he spent his rest period as an instructor at Lough Erne in Northern Ireland and as a test pilot. In early 1944 he came back to Canada on a leave of one month. On returning to the UK, he was posted to #423 RCAF Squadron at Castle Archdale, Northern Ireland and promoted to the rank of Squadron Leader. This second tour of operations ran from April 1944 to August 1945. V-J Day came and went and he was sent home to Canada and demobilized in October 1945. Almost immediately he started to work in construction. For the next 40 years he worked as a General Contractor. During that time he built 75 bridges of all types, sidewalks, curbs, gutters, water treatment plants, sewerage treatment plants, irrigation structures and earthworks. He was predeceased by his father James Robert Cunningham and mother Emma Stanley Cunningham and more recently by his first wife Mary Elizabeth Cunningham. He is survived by his second wife Blanche Elizabeth Cunningham and his three sons, their wives and their children. James Cunningham, wife Barbara, their two children Erin and Scott, David Cunningham, wife Beverly, their two children, Jessie and Jackie. Peter Cunningham and Jean Cunningham, their four children, Justin, Eric, Ryan and Adam. He is survived by two sisters Alma Shannon and Lois Shannon, and by two nieces and two nephews. There was no funeral at his request, but friends and family attended a celebration of his life on May 15 in Taber. 6-1t
